

The Program on International Health and Human Rights, the Department of Population and International Health and the Vietnam AIDS Public Policy Training Project, Kennedy School of Government Present:

AIDS in Vietnam: The Need for Leadership in an Effective Response

*Presentation by and discussion with Senior Faculty
From the Ho Chi Minh National Political Academy*

*Moderated by: Sofia Gruskin
Associate Professor in Health and Human Rights
Director, Program on International Health and Human Rights*

Tuesday, September 19th 2006
11:30am-12:20pm

Building 1, Room 1002A
(10th Floor Conference Room*)

To access the conference room go to the 11th floor and use the spiral staircase

This event is co-sponsored by the Program on International Health and Human Rights and the Department of Population and International Health, Harvard School of Public Health and the Vietnam AIDS Public Policy Training Project, Kennedy School of Government

Refreshments will be provided

The Vietnam AIDS Public Policy Project is a partnership between Harvard University the Ho Chi Minh National Political Academy (HCMNPA) and the Health Policy Initiative

For more information or questions contact: Jessie Evans, jjevans@hsph.harvard.edu or 617-432-4314