Take this study with a grain of salt, says HSPH Nutrition Source

A new study would have you believe that low-salt diets raise your risk of dying from heart disease. The study's conclusions are most certainly wrong, say HSPH researchers.

Yerby Diversity Lecture highlights lack of health insurance, access to care, among urban youth of color

Adolescents and young adults of color are the least likely to have health insurance and have the least access to health care compared to other groups in the United States, Angela Diaz, MPH '02, told an HSPH audience during the Yerby Diversity Lecture in Public Health on April 5. Diaz directs the Mount Sinai Adolescents Health Center, which she has turned into the largest adolescent-specific health center in the United States. Read more
