The U.S. Supreme Court Thursday upheld the constitutionality of the historic Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act. Enacted in 2010, the law signaled significant health care reforms, but faced mounting criticism. This Forum at HSPH will explore the implications of the decision for Americans -- health care access, coverage, costs, and quality. Where do we go from here? Presented in collaboration with Reuters.

Expert participants include HSPH Professors Robert Blendon and John McDonough, Wendy Mariner of Boston University School of Public Health and Harvard Business School's Regina Herzlinger. Reuters health care reporter Toni Clarke will moderate.
