

Jim held several important positions and served on numerous panels and committees, including:

1971-1979

Mathematical Statistician, NIH

1979

Arrived at Harvard as Associate Professor of Biostatistics

1987

Elected Fellow of the ASA

1989

President of the International Biometric Society, ENAR

1973-1975 & 1985-1989

Editorial Board of the Journal of American Statistical Association

1996-2003

Master of Cabot House, Harvard University

1990-2009

Dean for Academic Affairs, HSPH

1990-2016

Frederick Mosteller Professor of Biostatistics, HSPH

1990-2016

Editorial Board of the New England Journal of Medicine

2011-2016

Associate Dean for Clinical and Translational Science, HSPH

Celebrating the Life & Career of James H. Ware

Reflecting on Jim's impact on public health and his contributions to the school as a member of Harvard's faculty for almost 40 years

Jim's career was distinguished by his leadership roles in academia and the professional societies and his devoted service on government panels and committees. He earned a well deserved reputation as an international scholar and educator in public health.

Friday | April 29, 2016

Kresge Building, Room G1 | Snyder Auditorium

- Chair - Biostatistics, Epidemiology & Research Design Key Function Committee, National Clinical Translational Science Consortium
- Member - Anesthetic and Analgesic Drug Products Advisory Committee, Food and Drug Administration
- Committee on the Persian Gulf War Illness, National Academy of Sciences
- Policy Advisory Board - Study of Pulmonary Complications of AIDS, NHLBI

HARVARD
T.H. CHAN

SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH
Department of Biostatistics

PROGRAM

Welcome

Victor DeGruttola, Professor of Biostatistics
Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health

The Early Years at the NIH: Building a Career

Dave DeMets, Max Halperin Professor of Biostatistics
Former Chair, Department of Biostatistics and Medical Informatics
University of Wisconsin School of Medicine and Public Health

Jim and the Six-Cities Study

How Jim Taught the Real Meaning of Six Degrees of Separation

Frank Speizer, Professor of Environmental Science
Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health

Laird-Ware and the Six-Cities Study

Nan Laird, Harvey V. Fineberg Research Professor of Public Health
Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health

Jim's Years as Academic Dean

(Video) Harvey V. Fineberg, President
Gordon and Betty Moore Foundation

Barry Bloom, Harvard University Distinguished Service Professor
Joan L. and Julius H. Jacobson Professor of Public Health
Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health

David Hunter, Acting Dean of the Faculty & Dean of Academic Affairs
Vincent L. Gregory Professor in Cancer Prevention
Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health

Jim as a Mentor to Faculty

Xihong Lin, Henry Pickering Walcott Professor of Biostatistics
Chair, Department of Biostatistics
Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health

Jim at the New England Journal of Medicine

Jeffrey Drazen, Editor-in-Chief
New England Journal of Medicine

Concluding Remarks

Jim Ware

Frederick Mosteller Professor of
Biostatistics & Associate Dean for
Clinical and Translational Science

During his remarkable career of more than 45 years, Jim Ware's work in academic affairs, teaching, and scholarship was marked by an unwavering dedication to his profession, his colleagues, and the institutions he served.

He was an extremely popular and inspirational teacher, with a unique ability to communicate complex ideas in a straightforward manner to a diverse audience. Extremely thoughtful and judicious in his leadership roles, he enabled projects to thrive and flourish.

Jim was the embodiment of what we all hope for in a colleague and mentor – generous with his time, eternally optimistic, enthusiastic, supportive, and kind.